Documentation Requirements and Guidelines

To determine eligibility for reasonable accommodations, submitted documentation must meet the requirements outlined in USAO's Academic and Housing Accommodation Policies and Procedures, available on the university website. All disability-related documentation is kept confidential and will only be shared on a need-to-know basis, in compliance with applicable federal and state laws.

- Functional Impact: Documentation must include a detailed explanation of how the condition substantially limits one or more major life activities, particularly with the specific barriers encountered in academic settings.
- Connection Between Disability and Requested Accommodation: Documentation should clearly describe the link between the diagnosed impairment and the specific accommodations being requested.
- Diagnostic Details: Documentation must include a clear diagnosis, the assessment tools used to establish that diagnosis, and the corresponding results. It must also provide a comprehensive description of the impairment's nature, severity, and expected duration.
- Provider Qualifications: Documentation must be submitted on official letterhead and provided by a qualified diagnostician or a properly licensed healthcare or mental health professional.
- Recency of Documentation: Documentation older than three years may still be accepted, but the Office for Accessible Education (OAE) must evaluate its relevance based on the nature of the disability.
- Provider Recommendations: While not mandatory, it is preferable for documentation to include suggestions from the diagnostician for reasonable adjustments and auxiliary aids.

Student Signature: I have read and understand the information above regarding the university's expectation for supporting documentation in compliance with federal and state laws.
